MANCHESTER MAN FOUND
GUILTY OF DRUG DISTRIBUTION

CONCORD, NEW HAMPSHIRE – United States Attorney Tom Colantuono, United States Marshal Steve Monier, New Hampshire Attorney General Peter W. Heed, and Manchester Police Chief John Jaskolka, announced that Charles E. Glenn, Sr. age 43, of Manchester, New Hampshire was convicted of drug distribution after a jury trial held before U.S. District Court Judge Joseph A. DiClerico, Jr.. Glenn was charged in a three count indictment in connection with the distribution of Zanax, a Schedule 4 controlled substance, and crack cocaine to an undercover narcotics officer in Manchester, New Hampshire during February 2002. He was also charged with the sale of crack cocaine to an individual whose identity was never determined and was acquitted of that charge. He was detained pending a sentencing hearing which is scheduled for December 15, 2003.

United States Attorney Colantuono stated, "Crimes such as drug trafficking impact communities and place costs on society. One of the highest priorities of the United States Attorney's Office is to continue to seek ways to prevent and reduce crime through the aggressive prosecution of these cases. This case is just one example of our continued dedication to that mission."

The successful prosecution of this case resulted from the efforts of the Manchester Police Department, the N.H. Attorney General's Drug Task Force and the U.S. Marshals Service. This case is being prosecuted by Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert J. Veiga.
